

It is imperative that the state of NJ maintains the do not call list. Telemarketer phone calls to one's residence should actually be seen as a type of harrassment. Before the do not call list I literally never answered my home phone. People who knew me knew to call on my cell phone. I now answer my phone again, which I believe I should be able to do without the threat of it being someone I do not know who wants to sell me something.
